The Fund invests by sampling the index, meaning that it holds a broadly diversified collection of securities that, in the aggregate, approximates the full index in terms of key risk factors and other characteristics.

Principal Risks

An investment in the BobsFunds Consumer Staples is subject to investment risks; therefore, you may lose money by investing in the Fund. The Fund is rated Low–Medium risk. There can be no guarantee that the Fund will achieve its investment objective.

Market Risk. The Fund is subject to market risk — the possibility that the market values of securities owned by the Fund will decline. Market prices of securities generally move with the overall economy, and may fall due to factors such as adverse issuer, political, regulatory, market, economic, or other developments.

Index Tracking Risk. The Fund may not perfectly track its benchmark index due to transaction costs, timing differences, and the use of sampling techniques. Tracking error may cause the Fund to underperform the index it is designed to replicate.

Concentration Risk. To the extent the Fund's benchmark index is concentrated in particular sectors, industries, or geographic regions, the Fund will be subject to greater volatility than a fund that is not so concentrated.
